HEIRS OF MRS. LESLIE MAY CONTEST WILL

That the heirs of Mrs. Frank Leelle, who died September 18, are preparing to contest the will by which the residue of her estate was left to the cause of suffrage was intimated strongly yesterday. The will has not been filed for probate and until it is, which will probably be this week, aothing in detail can be said of steps to invalidate it.

By this unusual document Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, the suffrage leader, is made the sole residuary legatee. If its provisions are carried out she will possess in her own absolute right property which may be very large or which may be considerably less than the value placed by popular belief on the Leslie estate. Mrs. Catt said yesterday that she had seen the will. She explained that, although the residuary estate was left to the suffrage cause, the will had been so drawn that it gave her the suffrage legacy outright to spend for the cause as she saw fit. Her obligation, she added, was a moral one only.

The suffrage leader had heard of the probable efforts to contest Mrs. Leslie's will and expressed no surprise. She made the remark that a testator leaving large properties is very generally considered to have been incompetent if the bequests are the remark that a testator leaving large properties is very generally considered to have been incompetent if the bequests are out of the direct line.

"Of course I shall oppose any action to break the will," said Mrs. Catt. "Wouldn't you? It is the natural thing to do. Mrs. Leslie told me several times that she intended to leave some of her property for the benefit of the suffrage movement. She had not contributed largely during her life—we have no large contributors—but she had always been more than interested. The only surprise to me was that the property was given outright in my name. I had no thought of anything like that.

"The will was made last May. Mrs. Leslie was in good health and was attending to her business interests as usual. Very soon after she went abroad and every one of her friends called her competent then."

Mrs. and Mrs. Jacob Ruppert, Sr., will be celebrated to-day at their country home, Hinebeck, N. Y. They were married October 4, 1864.

BIG CONCERNS CUT SALARIES. SUE TO BREAK WILL OF JAMES CAMPBELL

Relatives Deny He Had Daughter and Accuse Clergy of Undue Influence.

$15,000,000 IS AT STAKE

Sr. Louis, Oct. 3 .- A fight to break the will of James Campbell, disposing of $15,-000,000, has been started in the Circuit Court here by the testator's nephews and nieces.

The beneficiaries under the will, dated December, 1913, six months before the death of Mr. Campbell, are the testator's widow, his daughter, Mrs. Lois Campbell-Burkham, and St. Louis University.

The plaintiffs charge that the testator died without any children; that the will never was properly executed and that Campbell was induced by clergymen and others connected with St. Louis University through fear of punishment hereafter to make the institution the residuary legatee. Under the terms of the will the widow and daughter get the benefit of the income during their life and after their death the estate goes to the university.

The complaint alleges that when Campbell signed the purported will he was in poor health and a feeble state of mind.

It also is charged that when Campbell It also is charged that when Campbell inserted the names of the St. Louis University in the testament he did not do so in the presence of witnesses. The complaint alleges that at the time of the making of the will Campbell was in feeble health and "by reason of incidents in his business and social life and his fear of death and future punishment" he was "easily imposed upon" to leave his estate in trust for the St. Louis University. It is alleged further that the institution under the terms of its charter has no right to accept such a gift.

The plaintiffs are Margaret C. Harrison, Mary C. Spargo, James G. Campbell,
